We chose Jason Cheung's code to be the one that we use because he had the code that was the most complete. He had all the sections complete compared to other team members who did not get to finish candy cane. As such, his code was tested and proven to have most of the functionality working.